From the Principal

Great to see so many of our students involved in projects which will help them develop skills for the future. SRC, Hands on learning and the recent student congress are all examples of our students working on projects which benefit themselves, the school and the wider community.

SRC to Student Leadership Congress at Deakin University

Last Thursday representatives from our Student Council attend a Leadership Forum at Deakin University. Along with student leaders from all our network, they listened to some inspirational speakers and learnt about ways to develop their skills as leaders in their schools.

Our 2019 Student Representative Council; are: Koda Wright, Kayla Foster, Jye McInnes, Bailey Borland, Jesse Duke, Shaye Worthington and Emma Daffy.

The SRC listened to inspirational speakers including:

Jye: 'A man called Ben was kicking a ball and lifted it up with his feet. Another man makes hands for children (for free) because they had no hands'.

Kayla: 'We heard all about other people's lives like Matt who helped children get robotic arms and fingers (for free). The speakers were showing us how their lives happened. They wanted to help other people too'.

Bailey: 'The day was about showing us how to make our school and the community better by doing a project. The lady spoke about the ups and downs of her sporting career. And it was about DON'T GIVE UP ON YOUR DREAMS!'

SRC now hope to motivate fellow students and use 'Student Voice' to seek out a project direction for students at Hampden.

Hands On learning

Our first Hands on Learning participants have been busy setting up their workspace to be safe and functional. The students have undertaken some OHS training on the safe use of power tools. Everyone has chosen their first individual project to work on. Each week one student has prepared lunch for the group.
